

Making interesting images

(Warning, unpredictable randomness up ahead

By my amazing self

This photo represents confidence as the background is blurred making the focal point the person.

Through editing this photo I learned to use seedshare

The photo displays confidence because of the slightly upturned angle

This recreation is of me and Maddie who I met in preschool and have just recently reconnected with

I am on the right and Maddie's the one on the left, in the photo we stood in a bucket so we did the same for the recreation!

This is a recreation of me as a baby standing on my dishwasher! (No dishwashers were harmed in the making of this..

This is me and Evelyn recreating one of Frida Kahlos most notable self portraits.

Me, Evelyn, Kai, and Scarlett recreated The beetles Abbey Road cover

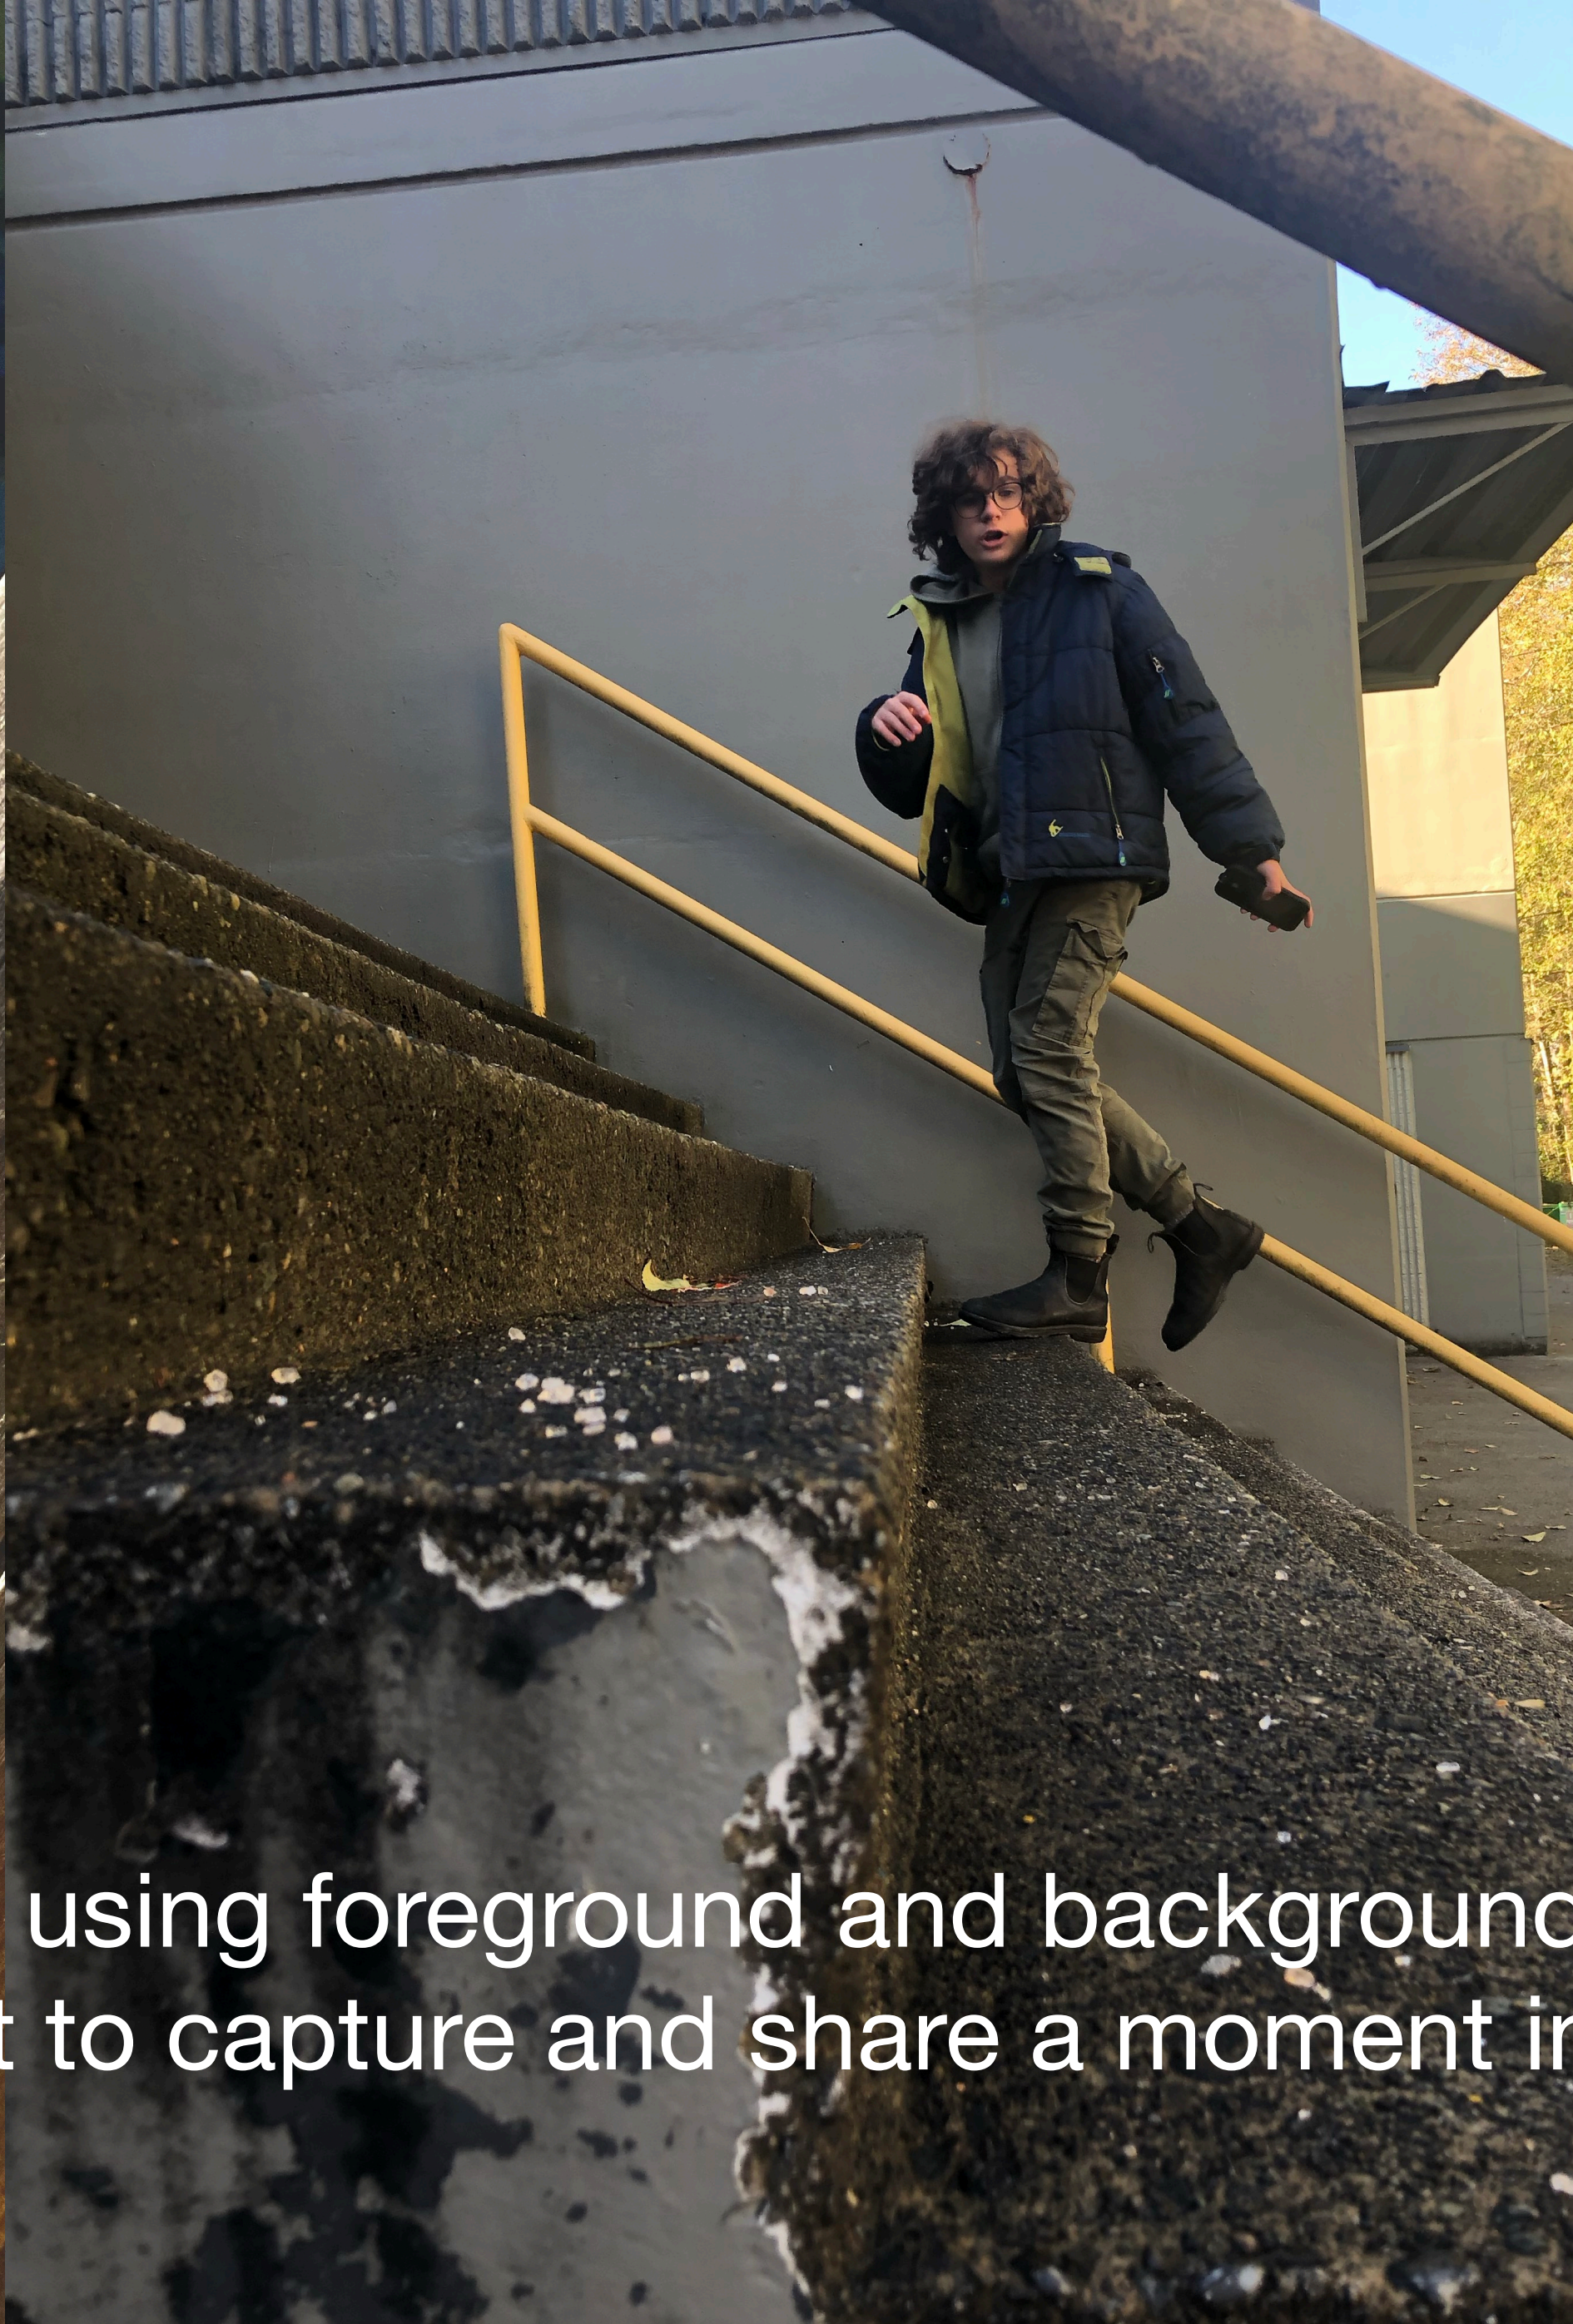

This is my version of the silhouette shot we learned about, I know the point was to max out the contrast of the photo by making the photo black and white, but I thought my pictures looked better with a pop of colour! What do you think, would you prefer the black and white version, or do you agree with my decision? I'd love to hear your thoughts.

Here are examples of me using foreground and background and angles in a variety of ways to attempt to capture and share a moment in my community!