

Project Management.

Brayden's Future Career

What Is Project Management?

---

- A project manager has many kinds of tasks. They have a very advanced role as it can be different each and everyday. Their role is important because they help keep a company and their projects organized and progressing. They are like the brain of a company.

A Project Managers Tasks.

---

- A Project Manager has many kinds of tasks with each having a high importance.
- Project Managers do things like:
  - Organize things in the company
  - Set up the budgeting
  - Schedule Events
- They also do things like speak with supervisory personnels and marketing staff to discuss things like project specifications and requirements as well as blueprint review and making appropriate adjustments to the project.

A Project Managers Workplace.

- A project managers workplace can vary on a daily basis. Project managers will spend a majority of their time at an office or desk organizing files, making phone calls and filling out documents. Other times, project managers will be on site with the project helping guide the workers. They will give the workers the essential information for the project and guide them to success. Sometimes, project managers workspaces can even be just virtual. Virtually they will do things like manage project management software, document management systems, and digitally input their business analytics.

What Skills Does A Project Manager Have?

Project Managers require some essential skills. While its not for everyone, if these skill are worked on you can become a very successful project manager.

- CRITICAL THINKING-Project Managers should be critical thinkers to logically solve problems by identifying strengths and weaknesses and coming to a well rounded conclusion.
- SOLID COORDINATOR-Project Managers should be great coordinators. They need to be good at adjusting their actions in relations to others to help keep business flowing smoothly and to not cause any confusion or project errors.
- GOOD MONITORS- Project Managers must also be great at Monitoring. This means that they need to good at assessing things like projects, others, and even themselves as well as organizations to make appropriate changes or improvements to projects.

Lastly and probably the most key skill, project managers must be very good speakers/communicators. They must be confident speakers who can affectively provide information and guidance to others to help make things flow as smooth as possible making the project to the best it can be.

Advice From A Project Manager

- Project management is really about keeping things on track and making sure everyone's on the same page. Communication is key—talk to your team, listen to them, and keep stakeholders in the loop. Stay organized, document what's happening, and don't freak out if things don't go perfectly—just roll with it and adjust. Build trust with your team, manage expectations, and keep an eye out for any signs of things getting off course. And don't forget to keep learning—whether it's through feedback or picking up new skills, it all helps. –My Dad.

Do I Match?

- My compatibility for this job was very high. I scored a very high score of a 94% match. This means that I am a solid match for the job of a Project Manager, and that lots of my personal skills and interests match its criteria.

Some Interest/Values Of Mine That Relate.

- Having personal values and interests that associate with the career you want can make it seem much more exciting! Here are some of my personal values that match Project Management:
- I really like breaking down big things (like projects) and creating a step-by-step process towards the goal. I like this because I value organization and that is very important in project management.
- Who doesn't love achievement? A big value of mine is achievement and that is a key factor of project management, achieving project completion.
- Lastly, a big value of mine is leadership, I value taking on the leadership role in a workplace and project managers are just that. They give everyone their tasks and sort out people.

Why Do I Want To Be A Project Manager?

- I want to do this as my career because I like being in the leadership role, I have learned lots about it from relatives who do it, and the job has many business opportunities as project managers are always needed in big projects. (Housing, City Projects, etc.)
-

Some Project Management Related Things I Could Pursue/Had

---

-I could take the leadership role in future group projects giving everyone their own tasks to fulfill and request updates on their task progression, and get updates on who has completed what, etc.

-I could help in creating a fundraising campaign managing the funds we are making, who does what tasks, calculating our profits from each sale, etc.

-A micro experience I have with this is when I worked on a project of making my own t shirt. I had to plan out things like designs, finding proper measurements, finding a good manufacture, and etc.

A Post Secondary Institute For This Career

- The University Of Toronto

- Admission requirements

- Open to individuals of all academic and professional backgrounds.
- No prior experience in project management is necessary.
- High School Diploma/Secondary School Diploma
- Fluent In English

KEY DETAILS ABOUT THE PROGRAM

-Program Length: Its meant to be a 1 Year full time study program.

Tuition: For domestic students, the tuition for the program is approximately CAD $13,500 per year

Books and Materials: Additional costs for textbooks and materials could range from CAD $500 to CAD $1,000 per year

Residence: If living on-campus, residence fees can vary but typically range from CAD $10,000 to CAD $15,000 per academic year

Meals: Meal plans are available through the university, with costs varying depending on the plan selected, generally ranging from CAD $3,500 to CAD $6,000 annually

Program Type: The program is offered full-time and part-time, with no specific co-op or apprenticeship option integrated into the curriculum.

Location: The program is based at the University of Toronto campuses in downtown Toronto, providing easy access to numerous professional opportunities and networking events related to project management

Advantages Of The University Of Toronto

---

Well-Known Curriculum:The University of Toronto's Project Management program is famous for having a strong curriculum.

---

Mix of Old and New Methods:It teaches both traditional project management ideas and modern approaches like Agile, helping students be ready for today's jobs.

---

Respected University:Being part of a top-rated university makes the program even more credible.

---

Helpful Teachers and Past Graduates: Students learn from expert teachers and can connect with past graduates, which is great for finding career opportunities.

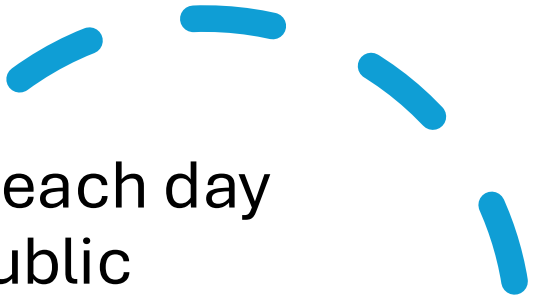

---

Great for Learning Skills:This program is an awesome choice for anyone who wants to get better at project management.

How Would I Get There Each Day?

I would take my bike there each day to save money on gas or public transportation. Worst case scenario I need to repair some bike parts.

(If i have residency these won't apply)

Some Future Prospects For This Field

- Graduates of the program have a wide range of career opportunities in fields like IT, construction, healthcare, and finance.
- There is a strong and growing demand for project management professionals globally, which means this qualification is valuable not only in Canada but also internationally

How Much Does A Project Manager Make?

- Graduates of the program can expect to earn between $65,000 and $140,000 per year, depending on their role and experience.

What If I Don't Make Project Management?

- Plan B Courses:

Graphic Designer- I have lots of experience in digital art and could make a good career out of it.

Biochemist- I really like science especially chemistry and I have a very high match of 90% compatibility for the career.