01 05 1885, Dufferin to HV from Simla. Much obliged for letter, re Sir Neville Chamberlain's merits, fine officer, will mention, but if command can be found for him suitable to his rank....The worst of this quarrel with Russia is that if we go to war and win, we shall probably throw back Central Asia into the misery and barbarism from which Russia has more or less rescued it. At all events whatever happens, we here will have the satisfaction of knowing that we have done nothing to stimulate the quarrel but on the contrary have assumed an attitude in respect of... moderation and forbearance. Pray remember me most kindly to Miss Nightingale. I read the papers she was good enough to give me on my way out and was very much interested in them. She may depend upon my doing my best to carry out the views she has so much at heart. At all events, we have passed the Bengal Tenancy Bill which will bring a sense of security and peace to millions of peasant homes and that w/o any injustice to the zemindars.

these two romantic people, viz. Miss Nightingale and Sidney Herbert, would not be so far from the Crimean monument as you might think. You are perfectly correct, I believe, in saying that Sidney Herbert wished to marry Florence Nightingale and, therefore, in every respect it is appropriate and desirable that their statues should stand near each other in face of the monument commemorating the war with which they were both so closely connected." PRO

08 12 1912 King agreed to moving Crimean Monument to permit both statues, SH monument moved from Whitehall to Waterloo Place PRO
